2011 Application

The College of Science and Mathematics Ambassadors are a group of motivated students dedicated to promoting the College of Science and Mathematics and encouraging strong relationships between the faculty, staff, and students within the college. We pride ourselves on our commitment and support of our college. All of our members are very active within the group and, by maintaining these attributes we intend to sustain efficiency and excellence in all we do. Ambassadors are a link to college faculty, student body, and to those outside the college. All of the College of Science and Mathematics Ambassadors take part in the organization because we genuinely enjoy working together to make the college a better place for all those involved.
