

INCLUSIVE EXCELLENCE COUNCIL

Function

The Inclusive Excellence model, originated by the Association of American Colleges and Universities (AAC&U), is built upon the following principles:

- In higher education, an excellent institution is an inclusive institution.
- All students should have the opportunity to succeed.
- All students benefit educationally from participating in a community where people differ from one another.
- In order to be successful as citizens and workers, graduates must be prepared to live and work in a diverse world.
- An inclusive community is characterized by mutual respect, a sense of belonging, and personal safety.

Guided by the University's strategic plan, the Inclusive Excellence Council advises the President on ways of implementing the above principles at Cal Poly. The Council, in consultation with campus leaders:

- Develops and recommends comprehensive goals and measurable objectives for the campus relating to Inclusive Excellence.
- Develops, recommends, reviews, coordinates, and, in some cases, carries out campus policies, plans, projects, and practices that affect the implementation of Inclusive Excellence.
- Monitors and evaluates the progress and success of campus efforts to achieve Inclusive Excellence.
- In collaboration, as appropriate, with Cal Poly Marketing and Communications, informs the university community about the progress and success of campus efforts to achieve Inclusive Excellence.

The Council determines the number and function of standing subcommittees.
