• Safer participated in NASPA’s Culture of Respect Initiative.
  Cal Poly and 13 other universities across the nation piloted the yearlong Culture of Respect (COR) initiative to assess how institutions respond to and prevent campus sexual violence. Cal Poly’s participation in COR demonstrates our continued commitment to national best practices in response and prevention of campus sexual violence.

• Safer celebrated the 21st annual Sexual Assault Awareness Month in April, which includes events such as the Clothesline Project and Take Back the Night. Nearly 2,000 students attended events throughout the month.

• Safer also introduced two new awareness months:
  1. Domestic Violence Awareness Month in October included 14 events and reached over 500 attendees.
  2. Stalking Awareness Month in January included 10 events and reached over 700 attendees.

• Safer partnered with the national It’s On Us campaign to host a Fall and Spring Week of Action, reaching over 1,200 students.

• Safer partnered with resources across campus and in the community. Campus partners include the Cross Cultural Centers, University Housing, University Police Department, Women’s and Gender Studies, the Undocumented Students Working Groups, and many more. Off campus partners include RISE, Women’s Shelter Program, and Victim Witness.
