

A & A Dasso Farms Internship
Irrigation Specialist

A & A Dasso Farms has been a packer and shipper of cherries, walnuts and basil in the heart of the California Central Valley for over 30 years. Dasso Farms has been a grower in this region for almost 100 years providing quality produce that has been shipped domestically, within California and the Pacific Northwest, as well as internationally, including Japan, South Korea, and parts of Europe. Cherry season starts anywhere from late April and finishes early to mid June. Basil will be planted and irrigated at the beginning of May and will be harvested during the end of July and into August. Walnut season starts in mid-September and finishes around the end of October.

We are west of Linden, CA, about an hour and a half east of San Francisco, an hour south of Sacramento and 15 minutes south of Lodi wine country. We will be able to work closely and show you the ropes of the industry that will ensure the best “learn by doing” experience.

We are looking for a driven individual who has a passion for the agricultural industry. This position will be independently checking and monitoring fields, incorporating new irrigation practices and coordinating with the farm manager about spray, irrigation and harvesting schedules.
