

A & A Dasso Farms Internship
Operations Coordinator

A & A Dasso Farms has been a packer and shipper of cherries, walnuts and basil in the heart of the California Central Valley for over 30 years. Dasso Farms has been a grower in this region for almost 100 years providing quality produce that has been shipped domestically, within California and the Pacific Northwest, as well as internationally, including Japan, South Korea, and parts of Europe. Cherry harvest in California is a short season, starting as early as late April and finishing as late as early to mid-June.

We are west of Linden, CA, about an hour and a half east of San Francisco, an hour south of Sacramento and 15 minutes south of Lodi wine country. We will be able to work closely and show you the ropes of the industry that will ensure the best “learn by doing” experience.

We are looking for a driven individual who has a passion for the agricultural industry. This candidate would also have an interest in seeing the packaging process from start to finish. The ideal candidate would put their problem solving and time management skills to the test while working within a fast-paced work environment as they would be handling the end of the packaging process.
