CPX Survey Now Open; Results will Build Evidence-Based Diversity Action Plans

The CPX Survey is here. A personalized email was sent to all campus community members Tuesday from Dr. Damon Williams at the address noreply@checkbox.com. The comprehensive, confidential survey asks all students, staff and faculty members questions about their experiences on campus relative to diversity, equity and inclusion. The results of the survey will build an evidence-based understanding to create actionable change for a better, more inclusive future at Cal Poly. Several campus community members have also shared their experiences at Cal Poly on a new CPX Stories page. Listen and read their stories to learn more about fellow campus community members, and find out how to share your own experience at diversity.calpoly.edu/cpx/stories. (Note that the community members featured on CPX Stories have agreed to share their stories publicly — each CPX Survey response will always be kept strictly confidential.) Each member of the campus community has the power to make impactful changes for greater equity and inclusion. Learn more about the survey at diversity.calpoly.edu/cpx/survey.

Cal Poly Appoints Internationally Renowned Biomedical Researcher as Vice President of Research and Economic Development

Cal Poly has appointed Renee A. Reijo Pera, an internationally recognized stem cell biologist, as vice president for Research and Economic Development, effective Aug. 12. Pera brings to her new role a proven track record in economic development as well as a strong background in undergraduate and graduate research and commitment to supporting students in their research efforts. For the past five years, Pera has served as vice president for Research and Economic Development at Montana State University, where she was also professor of cell biology and neurosciences and professor of chemistry and biochemistry. In her new role at Cal Poly, Pera will oversee the Grants Development and Sponsored Programs office, the Institutional Review Board, and other grant-related compliance bodies, as well as the Cal Poly Technology Park. She will lead university efforts in advocating for research and scholarship while promoting the value of a diverse range of scholarly and applied research activities and industry relationships for faculty, staff and students.

Cal Poly's 26th Annual Open House Set for April 11-13

The 26th annual Open House welcomes prospective students and their supporters, current students, faculty and staff, alumni, and the San Luis Obispo community to festivities Thursday through Saturday, April 11-13. Open House celebrates the achievements of past and current Mustangs and provides prospective students the opportunity to take part in campus traditions and show off their school spirit as they prepare for their time at Cal Poly. On April 11, prospective students and their families visit the Campus Preview Night at Farmers Market in downtown San Luis Obispo. On April 12, Admitted Students' Discovery Day allows prospective students and their families to become acquainted with the students' future academic careers. On Saturday, April 13, the public is invited to campus as Cal Poly holds its Poly Royal Celebration, during which more than 200 student clubs and organizations will demonstrate the university's Learn by Doing philosophy. Special events include the Poly Royal Parade, Kids' Zone, live music at Dexter Stage, the Poly Royal Truck and Tractor Pull, the Poly Royal Rodeo, and the Cal Poly Alumni Beer and Wine Garden. For a full schedule of events, download the Cal Poly Now mobile app in the App Store and Google Play, and search for the guide Open House 2019. For more information about Cal Poly's Open House weekend, go to: <http://orientation.calpoly.edu/openhouse>, or call New Student and Transition Programs at ext. 6-2400.

Reception to Honor Outstanding Student Employees to be Held April 11

Nominees for Cal Poly's Outstanding Student Employee of the Year award will be recognized at a reception from 11 a.m. to noon Thursday, April 11, at the Smith Alumni and Conference Center (No. 28). President Armstrong will give remarks and congratulate each of the 44 nominees. The 2018-19 Outstanding Student Employee of the Year will also be announced. This event is open to the campus community. Student employees, supervisors and supporters of student employees are encouraged to attend. The reception will celebrate the important achievements, contributions and exceptional service student employees provide to the university. For more information, contact Barbara Rollins at brollins@calpoly.edu.

Spring Into Action by Displaying Love, Empathy, Respect Flyers

The Cal Poly Inclusivity Group invites all staff, faculty and administrators to display Love, Empathy, Respect flyers spring quarter in their offices, windows and workstations to visibly support and promote the #MustangsUnited values across the campus. Flyers are available in the College of Science and Mathematics Dean's Office (No. 25), Room 229A; the Kennedy Library first floor Checkout Desk and the second floor Help Desk; and the School of Education Office (No. 2), Room 122B. Pick up flyers for yourself and colleagues, and help spread the universal values of love, empathy and respect.
