Cal Poly Opens New Welcome Center

Visitors have a new first stop when they arrive on campus: the Welcome Center. President Armstrong and San Luis Obispo's civic leaders cut the ribbon to officially open the new space in the yak?itvutu housing community on Grand Avenue. San Luis Obispo County Supervisor Debbie Arnold presented Cal Poly with a special proclamation commemorating the event. The 3,200-square-foot space serves as a one-stop shop for newcomers taking tours or finding events at Cal Poly. The center includes a 142-seat auditorium that will be used for presentations. More than 55,000 visitors came to campus in 2018, including prospective students and their families getting to know San Luis Obispo for the first time. The Welcome Center is the first space on campus to feature the university's new logo and updated branding now debuting after a year-long development effort.

Take 15 Minutes to Complete the CPX Survey by May 7

It's time. The CPX — Cal Poly Experience — Survey will close on Tuesday, May 7, so now is the time to share your experiences, perceptions and recommendations to improve diversity, equity and inclusion at Cal Poly. Take 15 minutes to complete the confidential survey and help improve the campus experience for you and future students, faculty and staff members. Look for a link in your email from Damon Williams (noreply@checkbox.com) to take the survey (check your junk and spam folders too). Students can also take the survey through the portal. Stop by the final CPX activation booth from 10:30 a.m. to noon Thursday, May 2, on Dexter Lawn to talk about your Cal Poly experiences, receive self-care resources, and pick up some free food and swag. Visit diversity.calpoly.edu/cpx/ to learn more.

Free Food and Coffee to be Offered in May for Bike to Work Day

Transportation and Parking Service is hosting a number of free events throughout May to inspire and support all campus community members who participate in Bike Month. Snacks and coffee will be available for those who ride their bike to campus on National Bike to School Day on Wednesday, May 8, and Bike to Work Day, Friday, May 17. The May 8 event will feature snacks, drinks and free swag from 8:30 to 10:30 a.m. on Dexter Lawn. On May 17, swing by Mustang Way (near the UU) from 7:30 to 9:30 a.m. for free food and coffee. With 7,000 bike rack spaces on campus, riding is a great option when choosing a commute. TAPS encourages everyone to participate in this year's Bike to Work Day in its effort to get Cal Poly to become carbon-neutral. Participants can log their bike commute at rideshare.org/s/calpoly. Plan your day and find other rewards and incentives for Bike to Work Day at rideshare.org/btwd.

Participate in Safety Days with Environmental Health and Safety

Environmental Health and Safety will host a number of events throughout campus to celebrate Cal Poly Safety Days from April 29 to May 3. The week will include events and activities aimed at engaging the campus community to raise awareness of workplace safety and health. Cal Poly Safety Days commemorates the International Labor Organization's World Day for Safety and Health at Work, which has acted to improve occupational safety and health for the past 100 years. Planned events include bike and pedestrian safety, lab safety giveaways, fire safety demos and a special Mixer at Myron's Bistro on Thursday, May 2. All departments are encouraged to participate. Contact Kathryn Villareal for more information at kvilla02@calpoly.edu.

Thirty-One Days of Wellness Kicks Off April 29 with Fair on Dexter Lawn

Campus Health and Wellbeing invites the campus community to participate in the third annual 31 Days of Wellness. Throughout May, with the support of campus and community partners, Campus Health and Wellbeing will showcase the multiple aspects of healthy living. From community wellness, social relations, emotional health, career development, academic success, financial wellbeing and physical health, there will be something for everyone. Students, staff and faculty are invited to come to a Kick-Off Fair from noon to 2 p.m. Monday, April 29, on Dexter Lawn. Discover opportunities for wellness where you work, study and play. Download the Cal Poly Now App at <https://guidebook.com/app/calpolynow/guide/mycpwell/> and look for the "Be Well at Cal Poly" guide for a full list of events. Questions? In Memoriam

Silas Pompa passed away April 6, surrounded by family and friends in Houston, Texas. Pompa, 42, approached his battle with cancer as he did all challenges in life, with positivity and grace. Pompa began his career at Cal Poly in 2007 as an administrative analyst in Facilities and was promoted to finance manager in 2014. In March 2016, Pompa became the director of customer and business services for Facilities Management and Development. His family and friends are proud of his success in his career at Cal Poly and equally proud of his character outside of work. Pompa was well known to take time from his day, no matter how busy, to buy a meal for someone in need or drop everything to support a friend or family member with a shoulder to lean on. Pompa was a devoted family man whose greatest joy in life was spending time with his family. He is survived by his wife, Laura, and his two daughters, Valerie and Annie, or as Silas called them, "his angels." Pompa was gentle, kind and had a great sense of humor. He is greatly missed by his colleagues and friends at Cal Poly.
