Campus COVID-19 Updates: Housing Asks Employees to Help with Move Out

University Housing is seeking faculty and staff to help move students out of campus residence halls and apartments. University Housing has developed a plan in coordination with public health and campus officials for residential students to come back to campus on staggered times days and times from May 19 through June 14 to get their belongings. Currently active employees, including student assistants who are currently working on campus, can sign up for two-hour shifts from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Employees must get approval from their supervisor first. Employees are welcome to sign up for multiple shifts in order to get this important job done. To sign up for a shift, go to <https://www.signupgenius.com/go/5080d44aca928a0ff2-20201>. Helpers must wear face coverings and gloves; University Housing will provide these items if needed. Visit <http://www.housing.calpoly.edu/move-out-information> for more information; contact Zach Zimmerman at zzimme01@calpoly.edu with questions. For updates and information about the university's response to the COVID-19 pandemic, continue to visit coronavirus.calpoly.edu.

Celebrate Global Accessibility Awareness Day on May 21

The campus community is invited to recognize the ninth annual Global Accessibility Awareness Day (GAAD) on Thursday, May 21, by engaging in several activities. The purpose of GAAD is to get everyone talking, thinking and learning about digital access and inclusion of people with various disabilities. Visit accessibility.calpoly.edu for a list of virtual activities that the campus community can do to mark the day.

Cal Poly Virtual Private Network to be Upgraded May 21

Information Technology Services (ITS) will upgrade the Virtual Private Network (VPN) service at 7 a.m. Thursday, May 21. The upgrade will enable "split tunneling," which will allow only traffic related to Cal Poly to travel over the VPN while users are connected to it. Once the work is complete, users may notice an improvement in the quality of Zoom video conferencing when connected to VPN. In the unlikely event that anyone experiences any connectivity issues after the VPN upgrade, contact the ITS Service Desk at ext. 6-7000 or [servicedesk@calpoly.edu](mailto: servicedesk@calpoly.edu).

Campus Community Invited to Participate in COVID-19 Research Study

Researchers at the Center for Health Research are studying health and behaviors in response to COVID-19. Todd Hagobian, Ph.D., associate vice president of research and professor in the Kinesiology and Public Health Department, is conducting the research study. The purpose is to examine differences in weight; COVID-19 diagnosis; and behaviors including physical activity, food, mood, sleep and social media use over 18 months in adult residents of San Luis Obispo County, California and beyond, under the stay-at-home mandate in response to the COVID-19 pandemic. Support for Industry Partnerships and Research to be Provided Through New Unit

A new unit within the Office of Research and Economic Development has been established to serve as a single point of contact for faculty in pursuit of for-profit sponsored engagement activities. Corporate Engagement and Innovation (CEI) will support faculty in industry-sponsored research, technology transfer, and applied innovation. CEI will assist faculty and researchers with proposal development and negotiating agreements with for-profit companies, assessment of potential inventions for patent/commercialization potential, and manage interactions with companies in the Cal Poly Technology Park. Visit www.cei.calpoly.edu or email cei@calpoly.edu for support in building long-term, productive and mutually beneficial relationships between Cal Poly and its industry collaborators.

International Center to Hold Language Workshops May 27-28

The campus community is invited to sign up for mini language lessons from around the world on May 27-28. Each 20-minute session covers basic vocabulary and phrases in different languages. The language sessions and links will be posted at international.calpoly.edu. Anyone with questions can email international@calpoly.edu.

Theatre and Dance Department to Present Virtual Spring Dance Concert May 20-22

The Theatre and Dance Department will present "Vitalis," a virtual showing of the annual spring dance concert Wednesday through Friday, May 20-22. Vitalis is a Latin word meaning "of or manifesting life." The student directors, Alyssa Gatan, Evan Ricauté and Lindsay Eklund, wrote "Dance manifests life through culture, connections and creativity." Typically, the spring concert is a live performance generated by the students for the stage in Spanos Theatre. This year students of varying majors, locations and dance experience will instead present 16 dances for the camera. Directed, choreographed, performed and edited by students, this show celebrates the chance to dance and explore different dance styles together through this time of social distancing. "Vitalis" embraces the values of inclusivity, accessibility, diversity and creation of art by connecting more than 100 students at different locations to create this unique performance. To join this online experience, register to reserve concert access at bit.ly/cp2020sdc.
