Cal Poly Launches Second-Ever Comprehensive Fundraising Campaign to Advance and Support Learn by Doing on Campus

President Armstrong announced the kickoff of The Power of Doing: The Campaign for Learn by Doing at the Evening of Green & Gold on Friday, May 3, with an ambitious goal of raising $700 million by 2021. As the second comprehensive fundraising campaign in Cal Poly's history, The Power of Doing will have a direct impact on students, departments and programs across campus with focused support and funding to ensure that Learn by Doing continues to evolve well into the future. With over $556 million already committed by over 51,000 donors, funds will go toward the three main campaign pillars of empowering students, empowering excellence, and empowering innovation — all of which will help provide new opportunities for innovation and research. Specifically, this includes increased scholarship funding, better supported programs, additional classroom and lab spaces, more state-of-the-art technologies and equipment, expanded collaborative spaces for interdisciplinary projects, greater research opportunities, more industry partnerships, and more hands-on learning and real-world problem-solving for students. Learn more about The Power of Doing at giving.calpoly.edu, the university's newly launched campaign website.

Share your Thoughts Starting May 28, be Entered to Win an iPad Mini

We won't know unless you tell us, so Administration and Finance wants to hear from you. Starting May 28-June 19, all students, faculty and staff will have an opportunity to provide feedback on their experiences with all things A&F.

The confidential survey will help determine which areas, including Human Resources, Facilities, Police Services, as well as every other unit and department within A&F, are performing well or may need improvement. The survey will be accessible through a personalized link that will be emailed to all students, faculty and staff on May 28. The email will come from AFD Customer Satisfaction Survey. The feedback and input from these universitywide surveys will help A&F create a better campus climate through improved services and new amenities. A&F is made up of eight units, each of which will have separate surveys. Participants are being asked to rate only the departments from which they have received services. Each time a participant completes a survey, their name will be added into a grand prize drawing for a chance to win an iPad Mini or one of nearly 75 gifts, including Starbucks gift cards, tickets to shows at the Performing Arts Center, gift baskets, free meals at 805 Kitchen, and a week's entry into the Cal Poly Recreation Center. Tell us and win.

Campus Invited to President's Diversity Awards May 9

Join the Office of University Diversity and Inclusion and the President's Office in recognizing this year's nominees and recipients of the President's Diversity Awards from 2 to 4 p.m. Thursday, May 9, in the Performing Arts Center Lobby. Light refreshments will be provided. The awards celebrate members of the Cal Poly community who have exhibited a commitment to diversity. License Plate Will Become Your Permit with New License Plate Recognition Software

Transportation and Parking Services (TAPS) will implement license plate recognition software this summer to help better manage traffic flow and parking patterns throughout campus. Physical permits will no longer be necessary since your license plate will now become your permit. All students, staff and faculty can access and update information in their parking account online as well as purchase permits, pay or appeal citations, and update personal and vehicle information. To remain compliant, log into your parking account at <https://calpoly.t2hosted.com/Account/Portal> to ensure all information is accurate.

Open Forums Set for May 15-16 to Answer Questions about Construction on Center for Research and Innovation

In anticipation of construction of the William and Linda Frost Center for Research and Innovation (naming pending CSU Board of Trustees approval), Facilities Management and Development invites the campus community to attend an open forum session. The sessions are intended provide answers to questions about the construction project (formerly known as the Science and Agriculture Teaching and Research Complex), as well as how occupants in adjacent buildings will be impacted, and what steps are being taken to minimize disruption. The sessions will be held:

- 9 to 10 a.m. Wednesday, May 15, in Facilities Building (No. 70), Room 110.
- 2 to 3 p.m. Wednesday, May 15, in Fisher Science Hall (No. 33), Room 285.
- 3 to 4 p.m. Thursday, May 16, in Facilities Building (No. 70), Room 110.

Project support staff are also available to speak to classes or at department meetings. To schedule a meeting, contact Jessica Hunter at jhunter@calpoly.edu. For more information, visit https://afd.calpoly.edu/facilities/project_news_satrc.asp.

Cal Poly Previews Refreshed Branding and Plans Brand Trainings July 23 and 24

Thank you to the faculty, staff and students who took part in the preview of Cal Poly's refreshed branding on April 30, including a grand opening of the new campus Welcome Center in yak?it?ut?u. The preview was the culmination of more than a year of comprehensive market research, creative development, and user testing to form a data-driven marketing strategy that distinguishes the university and its Learn by Doing philosophy. If you have questions about the brand strategy project, check out a brief Q&A at <https://universitymarketing.calpoly.edu/resources/brand/frequently-asked-questions/> or send an email to branding@calpoly.edu. Faculty and staff can also explore more details about each step in the brand development process at <https://wiki.calpoly.edu/display/UM/Cal+Poly+Brand+Development+Process>. University Marketing will share guidelines on the narrative and visual expressions of the brand at training events on July 23 and 24. Faculty, staff and student assistants can sign up for the trainings and receive email updates at <https://signup.e2ma.net/signup/1898547/1901709/>.

Spring Volunteer and Service Fair to be Held May 14

The Center for Service in Action will host a volunteer and service fair for the Cal Poly community from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Tuesday, May 14, on Dexter Lawn. Ever wanted to serve on a board of directors, an advisory committee, or engage in meaningful service at a local nonprofit or governmental agency? Come by the Volunteer and Service Fair to speak to representatives from organizations that are doing amazing work in San Luis Obispo County. Several community partner agencies will be present to share how service can take shape for faculty, staff and students.

Had Gestational Diabetes During a Previous Pregnancy? Interested in Losing Weight?

Cal Poly's Center for Health Research is running a no-cost weight loss study specifically for women with a history of gestational diabetes (GDM).
