Get an Update on Collective Impact at Cal Poly on Nov. 28

The Office of University Diversity and Inclusion (OUDI) held two forums during fall quarter to inform participants about the "collective impact framework" and gain input about potential strategy groups for collaboration on diversity and inclusion. OUDI has compiled the feedback, developed a preliminary plan for collective impact at Cal Poly and would like to share it with the campus community. Faculty, staff and students are invited to hear a report from 9 to 10:30 a.m. Tuesday, Nov. 28, in Chumash Auditorium (Room 204) in the University Union. Questions? Call ext. 6-2250.

Dream Center to Host National Educator's Coming Out Day on Nov. 16

The Dream Center invites the campus community to participate in National Educator's Coming Out Day, part of a national effort to encourage educators who work with and support undocumented students' educational attainment to publicly "come out" to show their support. The purpose of the day is to begin developing public momentum and a narrative associated with undocumented youths' educational attainment rates and to spark conversations with educational institutions on how they can support undocumented student populations. Join us in becoming visible allies for the success of undocumented students at Cal Poly. The event will be held from 11 a.m. to noon Thursday, Nov. 16, in the UU Plaza.

Cal Poly Unveils Interactive E-book Version of 'More than a Motto'

An interactive e-book version of "More than a Motto: The Meaning Behind Cal Poly's Learn by Doing Signature" is available free online, with additional content not included in the print edition. The interactive e-book provides a dynamic format in which to read, watch and hear about 22 unique case studies and learn about the impact the Learn by Doing philosophy has on students, faculty, alumni and the community. Part of a larger, three-year project that kicked off with a campus conference in May 2015 and resulted in a hardbound display book that was published by University Graphic Systems last May, the e-book can be viewed and downloaded from the More than a Motto website:
