Cal Poly Magazine Invites Faculty, Staff and Student Submissions by Dec. 11

As 2017 comes to a close, Cal Poly Magazine is asking members of the Cal Poly community to share their stories and highlights from the past year. Faculty, staff and students are invited to describe their biggest accomplishments or reflect on how the year changed our campus. Submit your 300-word story and photos via the online form by Monday, Dec. 11: <https://magazine.calpoly.edu/my2017>. Stories may also be submitted via email to magazine@calpoly.edu before the deadline. The publication will select stories to share in the next edition of Cal Poly Magazine, which will be released in January 2018.

Retirements

Join the staff of the Center for Teaching, Learning and Technology in congratulating Cindi Jenkins, who is retiring on Friday, Dec. 1, after more than 20 years of service at Cal Poly. Jenkins has been the administrative support coordinator for the CTLT for the last five years, supporting the unit through a period of change and growth. The campus community is invited to attend Jenkins' retirement reception from 2 to 4 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 6, in Kennedy Library (No. 35), Room 209 (the CTLT Learning Commons).

Perry Judd, interim director for Facilities Planning and Capital Projects (FPCP), is retiring in December after more than 12 years with Cal Poly. Judd joined FPCP in March 2005 as a project manager, followed by various roles including, senior project manager, assistant director and associate director. Judd managed the construction of many projects, including the $19 million Spanos Stadium renovation and Memorial Plaza, $28 million Construction Innovations Center, $3 million Simpson Strong-Tie Materials Demonstration Laboratory, $65 million Recreation Center expansion, and $102 million Baker Center (finish construction/commission phases). Most recently, Judd delayed his retirement to become interim director for FPCP and oversee the planning and design for current major construction projects, including the new yak?it?ut?u residence community, Vista Grande Replacement, I Field Turf, Utilidor Hot Water Replacement, Gold Tree Solar Farm, Oppenheimer Family Equine Center, and Baseball Clubhouse and Bleachers. The campus community is invited to a reception honoring Judd from 11 a.m. to noon Friday, Dec. 8, in Facilities (No. 70), Conference Room 110.

Retirements

Carolyn Johnson of Academic Personnel will retire from Cal Poly on Dec. 30, after 34 years of service. Johnson began her Cal Poly career as a student assistant in Dexter Library in 1979 and in 1983 was hired full-time as a staff member in the health center. In 1984 she joined a small team supporting faculty personnel administration within the campus personnel office. For the last several years, Johnson has served as the staff supervisor for academic employment. She has had a tremendous impact developing efficient business processes to serve campus, including the academic employment processes for International, Graduate and Extended Education. A reception will be held from 2 to 4 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 12, in the fourth floor "living room" of the Baker Center (No. 180).

Anita West unofficially became part of the Cal Poly family in 1968 when her father, John West, began his tenure as the associate dean of the College of Agriculture, Food and Environmental Sciences and moved the family to California from Stillwater, Oklahoma. West began her studies at Cal Poly in 1981, and worked on campus as a student assistant for El Corral Bookstore. She earned her bachelor's degree in business administration in 1990 and her master's degree in education in 1993. Over the next several years, West held various roles, including supporting and automating the provisioning of student e-mail accounts, supporting the call tracking systems, serving as an inaugural member of the Information Technology Services (ITS) Service Desk. For the past 10 years, West has developed expertise in telephone services and related billing, served countless faculty and staff members, and supported telephone logistics for many new buildings and major staff moves. West's last day will be Friday, Dec. 15. Faculty and staff are invited to a reception in her honor from 2 to 4 p.m. Dec. 14, in Engineering West (No. 21), Room 105A (KTGY Gallery).

Pete Woodworth is retiring from Information Technology Services (ITS) on Dec. 11 after more than 30 years of service. Woodworth applied his passion for audiovisual technology and true craftsmanship to design hundreds of classrooms during his tenure at Cal Poly, including many of the most innovative instructional spaces on campus. He was also a pioneer in video-conferencing technology, serving as an advisor on the topic to the CSU system. In retirement, Woodworth looks forward to having more time to pursue his many creative interests, including photography, broadcast video production, audio production, blogging and playing the bass. Known by colleagues for daily hikes, or "walkies" as he would say, Woodworth will continue to serve as executive associate dog walker for his wife's pet services business.

Jim Galvan is retiring from Information Technology Services (ITS) on Dec. 15 after more than 20 years of service. Galvan has enjoyed an unusually long and varied career starting with his service in the military and followed by various positions in the aerospace industry, at CBS records, then in the antique, interior design, and upholstery businesses. Galvan started at Cal Poly on the night shift, manning the after-hours Service Desk. After shifting to daytime hours, he became a campus institution as the friendly face and voice of ITS. Galvan has provided solutions and reassuring comfort to thousands of faculty, staff and students over the years. Galvan will return to campus for a retirement reception hosted by ITS from 2 to 4 p.m. Jan. 18, in the Baker Center (No. 180), Room 537.
