Cal Poly Joins National Alliance to Develop a More Inclusive, Diverse STEM Faculty

Cal Poly has joined Aspire: The National Alliance for Inclusive & Diverse STEM Faculty, a three-year institutional effort to develop inclusive faculty recruitment, hiring and retention practices. Cal Poly is one of 19 universities joining the alliance this year. The program is funded by the National Science Foundation as part of its Inclusion Across the Nation of Communities of Learners of Underrepresented Discoverers in Engineering and Science (INCLUDES) initiative. The Aspire Alliance aims to use collaborative networks to help universities identify and implement the best practices to prepare, attract and retain underrepresented science, technology, engineering and mathematics (STEM) faculty. Cal Poly's participation in this initiative will be led by Camille O'Bryant, associate dean for Student Success, Welfare and Issues of Diversity and Inclusion in the College of Science and Mathematics; Eric Mehiel, associate dean for Diversity and Student Success in the College of Engineering; and Jane Lehr, director of Cal Poly's Office of Student Research and a professor of ethnic studies and women's, gender and queer studies.

Election Working Group Sponsoring Two Post-Election Processing Spaces

The Election Working Group will host two opportunities for members of the campus community to discuss the election and results. School of Education Awarded Grant to Support Local Educators in Special Education, Bilingual Education

A team of faculty and staff members in the School of Education has been awarded a $2.1 million Teacher Quality Partnership (TQP) grant from the U.S. Department of Education for Cal Poly's Teaching for Inclusivity and Equity Residency (TIER) project. The TIER project will create a residency program in the School of Education that will recruit and train 44 new teachers in the areas of special education and bilingual education and place these teachers in local school districts. These candidates will commit to teaching for at least three years in one of the TIER project's partner districts, which include the Santa Maria-Bonita, Santa Maria Joint Unified and Lucia Mar Unified school districts. The project will be supported by Briana Ronan, associate professor in the School of Education and the principal investigator for the grant; Tina Cheuk, assistant professor in the School of Education; Sarah Hegg, program manager for the TQP grant; and Leah Wood, associate professor in the School of Education.

Areas Operating In Person in Winter Required to Submit New or Updated Plans by Nov. 16

Cal Poly's Emergency Operations Center will require all departments or areas that intend to operate in person during winter quarter to submit new or revised operational plans. If a department/area submitted an operational plan for fall quarter and does not plan to make any changes, they will not be required to resubmit the plan. Note that no significant changes to campus operations are planned for winter quarter. A department/area should resubmit an operational plan if they plan to:

- Use new rooms/labs/spaces for educational purposes (such as in-person classes or other uses), or change the physical configuration of people/workstations/equipment, or modify procedures in ways that may significantly alter the plan's original infection controls.
- Introduce new or more than a minor change to the "Return to Work Protocols" Department Staffing Plans (visit <https://afd.calpoly.edu/hr/fall-work-plan> for more information).

To submit a new plan or resubmit a plan with changes, have the department chair or director review the new or updated plan for approval and then upload it directly by Nov. 16 to

<https://cpslo.sharepoint.com/:f:/s/DEM/EgJSRXLUC-RGlnaMgUMvOR4BTGqIB9AzcJcA6Sk2aBUNTg?e=cmotYf>.

Departments should consult with their college dean's office as appropriate before submitting a plan. Please use the track changes function on existing plans so plan reviewers can quickly see what was updated. Questions?
