Native American and Indigenous Cultural Center Opens

The Cal Poly community celebrated the new Native American and Indigenous Cultural Center (NAICC) during a campus gathering on Oct. 14. The event followed a small grand opening ceremony on Indigenous People's Day, Oct. 11, with yak tityu tityu yak tilhini Northern Chumash Tribal Members. The center aims to provide more support for the Native and Indigenous communities on and off campus through mentorship programs; academic support; and art, dance and crafting activities specific to Native American and Indigenous cultures. "This space is a love letter to all Native and Indigenous students," said Professor Jenell Navarro, chair of the Ethnic Studies Department, president of the American Indian and Indigenous Faculty and Staff Association and longtime advocate for the center's creation. Core to the center are its partnerships with Cal Poly's American Indian Student Association, American Indian Science and Engineering Society, the American Indian and Indigenous Faculty and Staff Association, University Housing and Academic Affairs, as well as the yak tityu tityu yak tilhini Northern Chumash Tribe and other local and statewide tribes. The resources students can find are rooted in decolonial practices, restorative healing, Native knowledge and community engagement. One of the centerpieces of the space is a mural titled, "Rooted in Native Knowledge," by Indigenous artist and cultural organizer Joel Garcia (Huichol). It features a red-tailed hawk, symbolizing the hope for reciprocal relationships with the natural world. COVID-19 Vaccine, Pfizer Boosters and Flu Vaccine Available on Campus

Rite Aid is returning to campus to administer COVID-19 and flu vaccines in the Main Gym Lobby of the Cal Poly Recreation Center (No. 43, Room 101). The clinic will run from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Friday, Oct. 22, Monday, Oct. 25, and Friday, Oct. 29. Flu shots are open to the entire campus community, including students, staff and faculty. The COVID-19 vaccine is only available to Cal Poly employees. (Students needing a COVID-19 vaccine should make an appointment at Campus Health and Wellbeing.) The Pfizer and Moderna vaccines will be available. Rite Aid will also offer Pfizer booster shots to individuals who have received the original two-dose series of Pfizer's COVID-19 vaccine and completed their primary series at least six months ago. That includes individuals 65 and older, those 18 through 64 with underlying medical conditions, and those over 18 who are at increased risk for COVID-19 exposure and transmission due to their occupational or institutional setting. Rite Aid plans to offer additional vaccine clinics in November. For more information about what to bring and to make an appointment, visit <https://coronavirus.calpoly.edu/covid-19-vaccine>. Walk-ins will also be accepted.

Enjoy a Day of Celebration at CultureFest on Oct. 23

The MultiCultural Center invites the campus community to Cal Poly's 24th annual CultureFest celebration from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 23, in the UU Plaza. This year's theme is Rooted in Culture: A Revitalization through Community, Food and Connection. Delicious food and entertaining performances are planned for a day of celebration and fun for the whole family. Also this year, the MultiCultural Center partnered with ASI Events to have a special headliner performance from 11 a.m. to noon, to be announced this week.

Multi-factor Authentication to be Required for Emeriti Faculty, Staff Starting Dec. 6

On Dec. 6, Cal Poly will begin requiring emeriti to verify their identities using Duo multi-factor authentication (MFA) when logging into web-based university resources that require a Cal Poly username and password. Using MFA is now standard practice at most universities, including all 23 CSU campuses. Cal Poly has been using Duo since 2019, and it has been required for students, faculty and staff since December 2020. Emeriti are encouraged to learn more about Duo MFA and get set up before the Dec. 6 deadline by visiting tech.calpoly.edu/services/mfa-duo. For those who are new to MFA, the FAQ page at bit.ly/mfafaq is a good place to start. Anyone with questions or who need assistance can contact the Service Desk online at <https://calpoly.atlassian.net/servicedesk/customer/portals> or by calling ext. 6-7000.

Catastrophic Leave

Angela Standifer, administrative support coordinator in Academic Programs and Planning, has qualified for catastrophic leave. Those wishing to donate leave credits to help her remain in full-pay status during an extended leave of absence should contact catastrophic leave coordinator Jessica Carson at ext. 6-2326 or carson@calpoly.edu to request a donation form.
