Diversity and Inclusion Collective Impact Forum To Be Held Nov. 2

The campus community is invited to a forum about the progress made on diversity and inclusion work at Cal Poly and the accomplishments achieved through the collective impact process from 1 to 3:30 p.m. Friday, Nov. 2, in the Performing Arts Center Pavilion. The collective impact approach allows multiple campus groups to work on a common agenda and shared measurements for diversity and inclusion at Cal Poly with the help of the Office of University Diversity and Inclusion's centralized infrastructure. At the forum, OUDI leaders will discuss specific recommendations made by strategy groups in the spring, which focused on curriculum, campus climate and the recruitment and retention of faculty and students. Attendees can expect to learn about next steps for collective impact work and find opportunities to participate in the continuing work of the strategy groups. The event will recognize and celebrate the hard work done to advance collective impact efforts. Faculty, staff and students are welcome to attend, enjoy light refreshments and connect with others. Go to <https://diversity.calpoly.edu/collective-impact> for more information.

Center for Service in Action Launches Make-a-Difference Month

The Center for Service in Action is designating the month of November as Make a Difference Month. In response to increased demand, the center is extending Make a Difference Day — its traditional day of service — into a month-long service event to connect even more local organizations with community members seeking meaningful service opportunities. In 2017, the program partnered with 18 organizations to log more than 2,800 community service hours by 700 volunteers during Make a Difference Day. The center is actively seeking to partner with San Luis Obispo County organizations and Cal Poly faculty and staff who may be interested in community service opportunities during Make a Difference Month.
