

GUIDE FOR FACULTY & ACADEMIC CONNECTIONS

Many students have been learning in a virtual environment for the past year and a half. As more students return to campus and in-person classes, it's important for them to connect with faculty, academic advisors, and other resources that support student success.

How to Approach Office Hours

Office hours allow you to meet your professor and get to know them, and help them get to know you. Some students feel that it can be a bit daunting to visit office hours the first time, but many students share they wish they had gone earlier.

Office hours can help you get a better or deeper understanding of the material, catch up if you are feeling behind, provide clarity if you are feeling lost, and help you get ahead when preparing for exams or projects.

Here are some starting questions to consider asking in office hours:

- How does {insert topic} in the reading relate to the lecture?
- Can you explain how you structure your exams?
- I was looking at the expectations of this project/paper, can you share with me what exceptional work looks like?"

Utilizing the Library

The Robert E. Kennedy Library team is thrilled to welcome you to campus and to the library! Visit the library and check out some of its resources or visit <https://lib.calpoly.edu/> to learn more!
