   DRC Testing Information for Faculty
   The DRC is available to provide testing accommodations for students with disabilities; however, faculty may accommodate students directly as long as students receive their appropriate accommodations. DRC staff are available to consult with faculty regarding ways to provide accommodations in the classroom; call 805-756-1995 to speak with an access specialist.

   For students who cannot be accommodated in class, instructors would provide the DRC with test proctoring information via our online Alternative Testing Agreement, and provide us with the exam by 2PM the day before the test date. Common testing accommodations include: additional time, an environment with limited distractions, adapted computers, scribe, and text-to-speech software.

2. You will then see an overview of all your students, the main accommodations they have requested, and a status area showing whether you have read the faculty notification letter via the Faculty Portal (the status does not update if you read the letter via email). When you click View next to a specific student's name, you can see the accommodation letter for that student:
