

CAL POLY

Student Affairs
University Housing

yakʔitʔutʔu

Freshman Residential Community

In recognition of the Indigenous people of San Luis Obispo, Cal Poly proudly names its new residential community, yakʔitʔutʔu, which means “community” in the Chumash language. Dedicated in honor of Cal Poly’s relationship with the Chumash, this student housing complex features seven residential halls named after Northern Chumash Tribal sites throughout the Central Coast region. Together, the university and the Chumash community partnership will serve to educate future generations of Cal Poly students and local residents about the Indigenous people of San Luis Obispo.

