Explores feminist theories, interventions and debates about gender and violence as addressed within the interdisciplinary field of Women's & Gender Studies. Emphasizes academic and activist approaches that address the complex intersections of genders and sexualities with race, class, ethnicity and other social factors across local, regional, national, and transnational contexts. Meets GE Area D5 (writing intensive) and USCP requirements.

Interested in the class but don’t meet the prerequisites? Email wgqs@calpoly.edu for assistance.