Clinical Practice Overview

Minor Placement:

Teacher candidates will be at your site one full day per week during fall and winter quarters.

The candidates will also be spending time in their major placement site, and attending on campus courses. This time in your classroom is critical to keep the “real world” in mind as the teacher candidates are immersed in education theory.

Teacher candidates and cooperating teachers will be visited by a university supervisor periodically to establish this important relationship.

Major Placement:

Teacher candidates will be at your site one full day per week in fall, two full days per week in winter, and five full days per week in spring.

Teacher candidates are expected to progress from observer to teacher assistant. By spring quarter, teacher candidates are in their full-time co-teaching assignment and are expected to take on more leadership in planning, instructing, and assessing.

Teacher candidates will be observed several times by the university supervisor each quarter. The supervisor will conduct an evaluation conference that includes the candidate and cooperating teacher.
