The School of Education is a small but collaborative unit with 11 tenured/tenure track faculty members spanning six specializations: special education, elementary education, secondary education, educational leadership and higher education counseling in student affairs. The unit is noted for its strong relationships with local schools, colleges and the community as it embodies an all-university, "Learn by Doing" approach to the preparation of P-20 leaders, educators and counselors. For more information on the School of Education please visit www.soe.calpoly.edu.

Cal Poly strongly values diversity and inclusion, especially in the classroom and among its areas of study. This position is part of a university-wide cluster of searches designed to increase curricular coverage of areas related to diversity and inclusion, as well as to promote inclusive teaching strategies across the university. Candidates selected through this cluster hire will be given $10,000 in start-up funds to support their work in diversity and inclusion. Once hired, candidates will collaborate with their dean and others to develop a plan for utilizing these funds for supplemental compensation, assigned time, or professional development activities.
